It gives me great pleasure to learn that The Plastics Export Promotion Council is felicitating the Top Exporters of plastics and plastic processed goods. The export of plastic moulded and extruded goods, polyester films and plastic woven sacks/fabrics/bags to more than 150 countries bears testimony to high quality standards of the industry. I am confident that the plastic industry would strive for higher growth and help the country become a leading exporter of plastic processed goods.

I take this opportunity to congratulate the award winners of the year 1997-98 and 1998-99 and urge upon the Council and its members to continue their endeavour for achieving excellence in the field of export of plastic products.

MESSAGE

I am glad to know that the Plastics Export Promotion Council will be holding Export Award Function for the year 1997-98 and 1998-99 on December 21, 1999.

The invention of plastics has revolutionised the human civilised life. Plastic is used in almost every field of human activity, including household consumer goods, furniture, scientific instruments, medical equipments and so on. However, it is a matter of concern to note that plastic goods pose a great threat to our environment. It is, therefore, necessary to undertake research and developmental work in the manufacture of plastic items so as to make them environment-friendly.

I compliment the Plastics Export Promotion Council for its endeavour to motivate and encourage the exporters to excel in their export performance.

I wish the Award presentation function all success.

I am glad to learn that the Plastics Export Promotion Council (PLEXCONCIL) is organising the Annual Export Award Function to honour the top exporters in the plastic sector during the years 1997-98 and 1998-99.

This sector is assuming an increasingly important role in the exports of the country. PLEXCONCIL has played a commendable role in guiding and encouraging its exporter members to enhance their performance. It has now a greater responsibility to widely disseminate to its members the ever expanding trade opportunities in this sector.

The opportunities provided by the liberalized economic policies of the Government need to be harnessed to produce world class products which should become synonymous with quality so as to be able to compete effectively in the international market.

I take this opportunity to extend my best wishes to all the members of the Council for every success in their future endeavours.

On behalf of the Ministry of External Affairs, I would like to felicitate the Award Winners of the Plastics Export Promotion Council for their export performance during 1997-98 and 1998-99.

There has been a phenomenal growth in the range of plastics and their use in all sectors of industry. The Indian plastics industry, in its pursuit of export excellence, is well set to capture the existing and new markets for plastics. Indian companies, I believe, have long term export goals, and are investing in the improvement of the quality and range of their material and products.

I would like to take this occasion to extend my good wishes to the Plastics Export Promotion Council and also compliment them on their work in promoting the exports of Indian plastics to destinations all over the world.

I am happy to learn that PLEXCONCL is holding its Export Award Function to felicitate its top exporters of 1997-98 and 1998-99.

The significant contribution and efforts being made by PLEXCONCL and its members in achieving the national objective of higher export growth is commendable. I am confident that the manufacturers and exporters in the plastic sector would strive further to augment production of quality products which would find acceptance in the international market.

Investment in Research and Development Activities, adoption of strict quality control norms, upgradation of production process by obtaining latest knowhow, initiating market research to ascertain the present needs of the market are some of the measures, which if adopted will enable the Indian exporters to stay ahead in the international market. I am sure that PLEXCONCL as an Apex body representing the aspirations of exporters in the plastic sector will continue to play the crucial role of a forum through which its exporter-members can voice their concerns on issues which are affecting them and the Government on its part is committed to render all necessary assistance to the endeavours of the exporter community.

I take this opportunity to congratulate the award winners and hope that they will prove to be perfect role models worthy of emulation for those member-exporters who were not so lucky this time.

I wish the function all success.

WELCOME ADDRESS
Shri Gaurav Swarup
Chairman, 1997-98 & 1998-99

Respected Shri Prabhujii the Honourable Union Minister for Chemicals & Fertilizers and friends

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you all today to this biennial Export Award Function which has always been a grand and memorable event for the PLEXCOUNCIL fraternity and its well-wishers and particularly the Export Award Winners.

I would like to accord a special welcome to Shri Suresh Prabhu the Honourable Minister for Chemicals and Fertilizers who has taken time out of his otherwise busy schedule and is amidst us here today to honour the Export Award winners. His presence here amongst us today is an indicator of his conviction to build the Indian plastic industry to become truly global in the future to come. I do look forward to his support, co-operation and guidance in our commitment to build capacities within our industry to service both the potential local and global markets.

I would also like to specially welcome all dignitaries from the Government who have always supported us in our ventures to move fast on the path of exports. A special welcome to my friends from the media who have always carried our messages and philosophy to the masses in the interest of export promotion.

All Export Award winners deserve a special welcome in consideration of their excellent performance despite the adverse environment both on the local and global fronts. It is worthwhile pointing out here that the aggregate export performance of the Export Award winners accounts for about fifty percent of the exports from the plastic sector. I am sure all other members will be motivated by these export award winners to achieve greater heights in exports and work towards becoming recipients of our Export Awards.

The Honourable Minister, I am sure, is aware of the characteristics of the plastic industry. Nevertheless, Sir, I would like to briefly touch upon important aspects of this industry. This is an industry that is primarily driven by technology and raw materials and the success of this industry in becoming truly global lies in deployment of using world class technology to achieve economies of scale and efficient sourcing of raw materials. The industry does not enjoy any comparative advantages as compared to competitors overseas who by and large are the Asian Tigers. In fact, we are in a bit of a disadvantageous position in view of the infrastructural inadequacies in terms of movement of cargo within and out of the country, transactional costs and high cost of power.

As far as our exports are concerned, our industry has always been exhibiting a much higher growth rate in relation to the overall export growth rates from our country. However, the figures in the last two years have not been very encouraging. We achieved exports of 620 million US Dollars in 1997-98 and 514 million US Dollars in 1998-99 implying growth rates of about 7 and minus 17 percent respectively. However, while these growth rates are negative in value terms, in terms of quantity and value addition these are still positive since the raw material prices fell by around 20 percent resulting in lesser unit export realisations. Therefore, the performance needs to be commended. Our major markets have been the USA, United Arab Emirates, United Kingdom, Saudi Arabia, Belgium, Germany, Hong Kong, Sri Lanka, The Netherlands, Spain and France. In terms of Regional Blocks it has been North America, the European Union and the Middle East. The major products have been a wide range of plastic moulded and extruded goods, polyester film, raw materials, plastic woven sacks and fabrics, a range of writing instruments and decorative and industrial laminates. Human Hair and its products are also included under our Council and are among the top export exchange earners of the Council.

Our share in the world market is negligible and there is an immense export potential available at the disposal of the plastic industry. Based on the data available with the International Trade Centre, we analysed the exports of a few items manufactured in the Indian plastic industry which supported our belief of a potent export market. Plastic sacks/bags for example – the total world imports in 1997 were 3727 million US Dollars out of which India's share was about 9 million or just about 0.27 percent. India does not even figure among the top 15 suppliers of plastic sacks/bags. The world imported 2879 million US dollars worth of pens in 1997 out of which India supplied 20 million US Dollars or about 0.70 percent. At least in this item, India did figure out among the 15 top suppliers to some top importing countries. Plastic House/Toilet Ware world imports in 1997 were about 4408 million US Dollars and India's contribution was about 10 million US Dollars amounting to about 0.2 percent. It is worthwhile pointing out here that countries like Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand and even Philippines figured as top suppliers to some importing countries. The potential of other items manufactured in the plastic sector is no different and with proper steps taken by the industry and the right policy initiatives backed with simple and transparent procedures, I am sure that we could certainly achieve a respectable market share in the world markets.

While the reform process is on, I personally feel that there is much more to be done and has to be done at a real fast rate. If the industry has to grow, it has to be supported with a proper policy framework that will facilitate us to develop capacities to cater both to the local and global markets rather than exporting only surplus capacities. In fact, the plastic sector has developed capacities and capabilities in a few sectors that include polyester films and plastic woven sacks and fabrics. The capabilities built by us have resulted in the European Union targeting these sectors with anti-dumping and anti-subsidy proceedings. I also believe, that we do have capacities to add value to plastic raw materials by moulding and extrusion. However, past experiences have made some entrepreneurs shy away from exports and it is high time that exports are encouraged truly as is deserved for any subject of national priority.

The export policies should be so framed that all export inputs are exempted from taxes which include customs duty, excise duty, sales tax etc supported through hassle free procedures. Rightly all schemes under the Exim Policy aim at exempting export inputs from customs and excise duties. However, the Department of Revenue views such schemes as revenue losses which is the main cause for conflicting objectives between the Departments of Commerce and Revenue. While the Department of Commerce wants to promote the cause of exports through export promotion schemes aiming at tax free export inputs the Department of Revenue is more concerned with supposed revenue losses. These conflicting objectives result in denying schemes committed by one arm of the Government by another arm of the Government or by imposing more cumbersome procedures that virtually make an exporter feel harassed.

To quote an example – the present Exim Policy provides for a zero duty window for import of plastic machinery under the EPCG Scheme. However, till date this provision has not been made effective in the absence of a corresponding notification from the Department of Revenue despite the fact that zero duty EPCG licenses have been granted to many members of the Council. Those exporters who have made imports were not allowed zero duty clearance against the zero duty licenses held by them. The procedure of logging export entries in the DEEC books is so cumbersome that exporters who cannot afford to maintain a separate infrastructure for complying with such procedural requirements are bound to strike off exports as an agenda off their business plans.

While the Ministry of Commerce has been showing a lot of concern on these issues, many such issues remain either unresolved or are addressed after a very long span of time as a result of conflicting objectives between the two arms of the Government. Such situations are demotivating factors to continue our march on.

Another aspect that I would like to point out is regarding to exporters being answerable to so many Government Agencies and non-fulfilment of export obligations, exporters are answerable to several agencies i.e. DGFT, Reserve Bank of India, Customs, DEA, DRI, enforcement etc. As a result, many a times they are treated, situation is beyond the not meeting certain requirements even if they are beyond the exporters' control. Such harassment naturally makes exports a high-risk low-return activity and results in exporters staying away from exports.

Such problems are being taken up by various Export Promotion Councils and apex bodies from time to time and solutions are really not forthcoming. The Ministry of Chemicals & Fertilizers being a functional Ministry for our sector has a larger objective to be fulfilled which in addition to exports includes building up the industry as a whole. Export friendly policies and procedures while adding to the export earnings of the country also add to build the industry, add to employment and generate employment by and large. As such, I earnestly request you, Sir, to take up the cause of exports with the highest priority in the Government hierarchy so that export operations are conducted in a friction-free environment. In this context, I look forward to your ministry and earn as much with your Ministry to both build the plastic industry and earn as much foreign exchange as possible through exports. During the course of our interaction we could identify many areas that cause friction to export operations and solutions to smoothen the same.

Before I could conclude, I would like to inform you, Sir, that we in the Council have identified that activities on the inter-lateral front like export marketing and market surveys do deserve our other weaknesses. As such, we are taking up promotional activities to conduct Market Surveys in target markets and have targeted the US to start with. We have been regularly sponsoring trade delegations and with the experience gained we have even decided to change the approach towards these visits. We have decided that we will conduct a brief market survey prior to the delegation visit by deputing a small team to get the pulse of the market. And we plan to add innovation to all our activities since we believe that there is always a better way to conduct our activities.

In our pursuit to achieve export excellence, Sir, we do look forward to your guidance and support and will consider it a great pleasure to work with you in your present capacity.

Thank you.

*Citation Presented to Shri Suresh Gandhi
Chairman, 1995-96 & 1996-97*

Whereas Shri Suresh Gandhi assumed the coveted position of the Chairman of The Plastics Export Promotion Council or PLEXCONCIL, as its popularly known, for the period 1995-96 & 1996-97, had several firsts to his credit during his tenure to promote the exports from the Indian plastic industry.

Shri Suresh Gandhi, a Chartered Accountant by qualification, has since 1973 been associated with the Kalpataru Group of Companies - a multi-faceted and diverse business group having interests in the field of real estate, transmission towers, stationery items and of course plastics. Shri Suresh Gandhi's association with such a Group for such a long span of time gave him an insight into a wide range of business activities like manufacturing, finance, marketing, exports and regulatory policies.

As a Managing Director/Joint Managing Director for 14 years of Caprihans India Limited - a Kalpataru Group Company - manufacturing decorative laminates, PVC Films & sheets and leather cloth, Shri Suresh Gandhi was actively involved with plastics and the Plastics Industry. Under his dynamic leadership, Caprihans was a consistent winner of Export Awards instituted by the Council and still enjoys a prominent position among the PLEXCONCIL's membership.

Having acquired a wide range of experience in diverse facets of business and the plastic industry, Shri Suresh Gandhi decided to contribute to the national cause of exports from the plastics industry by making his debut as a Member of the Committee of Administration of PLEXCONCIL during the year 1992-93. So impressed was the Committee of Administration with his experience and active involvement in export promotion that Shri Suresh Gandhi was elevated to the position of Vice Chairman of PLEXCONCIL for the years 1993-94 and 1994-95 before he rose to the well-deserved position of the Chairman of the Council for the years 1995-96 and 1996-97.

His several firsts during his tenure as the Chairman of the Council include the opening of the Council's office in New Delhi, rendering assistance to member in defending anti-dumping proceedings and sponsoring a business delegation to member in United States of America which is among the top most trading partners of the plastic sector both at present and for the future. A professional by nature, Shri Suresh Gandhi took up various problems with effective presentations to the concerned Government agencies. His inputs and guidance were a source of inspiration to the Council's Secretariat, which will always cherish memories of working with him very closely.

Shri Suresh Gandhi's commitment to exports and export promotion continues with his involvement not only with the PLEXCONCIL but also with Plastindia Foundation, an apex body of the Indian plastic industry founded by seven plastic industry associations including the PLEXCONCIL, in his capacity as its Vice President. Shri Suresh Gandhi, also an active Rotarian, is also a Member of the Managing Committee of the Organisation of Plastics Processors of India.

In recognition of his excellent contributions and selfless service in terms of building the plastic industry and its exports, the Council honours Shri Suresh Gandhi with this Citation at the hands of Shri Suresh Prabhu, the Honourable Minister for Chemicals & Fertilizers, Government of India on this seventh day of January 2000 in Mumbai.
