I am glad to know that the Plastics Export Promotion Council is celebrating its Golden Jubilee this year.

The growth registered by the Indian Plastic Industry in the last five decades is simply mind-boggling. Thanks to the export promotion strategy evolved by the Plastic Export Promotion Council over the years, the industry's turnover increased from a meager $ 16.5 million in 1955-56 to $1.3 billion in 2004-2005. It is heartening to know that the Indian Plastic Industry is poised to become global in the near future. Products from this industry are already being exported worldwide.

On the happy occasion of the Golden Jubilee Celebrations, I congratulate the Plastics Export Promotion Council and its members and wish them continued success in their endeavours. I also extend my congratulations to the winners of the Exports Awards for the year 2003-2004.

MESSAGE

I am glad to know that the Plastic Export Promotion Council will be celebrating the Golden Jubilee of the Council.

After the economic reforms and easier access to the technology, new doors have opened for the Plastic Industry. Indian Entrepreneurs are acquiring technical expertise to achieve high quality standard to compete in the Global Market. But, we should be more flexible and cautious to face the Competitions from the existing players. We have to search opportunities to work on Joint Venture Theories with the Foreign Companies. Sharing Technical and Marketing Expertise for the mutual benefit can also be considered. It is praise-worthy that the Plastics Export Promotion Council is taking efforts to reach greater heights and make India a global leader.

The Chairman of the Council and his team deserves Congratulations for their efforts in this regard.

My best wishes to you on the occasion of Golden Jubilee celebrations.

MESSAGE

It gives me immense pleasure to know that the Plastic Export Promotion Council is celebrating its Golden Jubilee this year. Over the years, the Council has done a yeomen service to our exporters by projecting India's products abroad, identifying prospective markets, holding promotional programmes, and felicitating key personalities in the plastic industry apart from encouraging meritorious exporters through excellence awards.

The Council has made a transition from being a registering body in the pre 1990s to that of an export promotion body in the liberalization era. With an export turnover of US$ 1.3 billion, the Council is set to scale new heights. On this occasion, I wish the Plastic Export Promotion Council all the success in their endeavours.

I am pleased to note that the Plastics Export Promotion Council (Plexconcil) is celebrating its Golden Jubilee this year. It is a feeling of great pride for Export Promotion Councils like Plexconcil to witness the completion of fifty years of service dedicated to the cause of plastic exports.

The post liberalization period has thrust more responsibilities on all Export promotion Councils and I am glad to note that Plexconcil is shouldering such responsibility with zeal and dedication. The Golden Jubilee year, I am sure, will add more milestones to the history of Plexconcil.

I take this opportunity to convey my best wishes to all members of Plexconcil, the Export Award Winners, the past & present Chairmen, all its officer bearers, its secretariat and all others in the plastic industry who have contributed to Plexconcil's growth, on the occasion of the Council's GOLDEN JUBILEE on the 15th July 2005.

June 27, 2005

The Plastic Export Promotion Council (PLEXCONCIL) have been serving the exporters of plastic products of India since 1955. The quality of the service rendered by the Council is evident from the phenomenal growth in export from a mere US$ 16.5 million in 1955 to the present level of US$ 1.3 billion in 2004-05. It is indeed remarkable that in spite of our lack of comparative advantage as far as raw materials are concerned, Indian Plastic products have really been able to achieve market access in more than 150 countries of the world.

Kindly accept my hearty felicitations on the occasion of the Golden Jubilee Celebrations of the Plastic Export Promotion Council.

GOLDEN JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS

Welcom Address:

Mr. Vimalchand Ratod, Chairman

Friends

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you all to this grand occasion when our Council celebrates its GOLDEN JUBILEE. I must consider myself particularly lucky since I am the Chairman of this prestigious body born fifty years ago in the year it turns fifty. I would like to accord a special welcome to Mr Jagdish Tytler the Honourable Minister of State for Overseas Indians Affairs, Government of India who has taken time out of his otherwise busy schedule and is amidst us today for our Golden Jubilee Celebrations. I also take this opportunity to specially welcome Mr Nikhil Meswani the Executive Director of Reliance Industries Limited who is amidst us on this memorable occasion despite his busy schedule too. I would also like to welcome all Government dignitaries who have always supported and inspired us into reaching greater heights in exports.

Friends, I am delighted to inform you that the Golden Jubilee year 2005 has heralded with an all time high export growth of over 70% touching exports of nearly two billion US Dollars. A few years ago, we were talking about crossing the one-billion US Dollar mark and we have almost reached the two-billion US Dollar much faster than what we expected despite the weakening trend of the US Dollar. I must congratulate all of you on this count and we must all put in all our efforts and resources to scale greater heights. With the support of organizations like Reliance Industries, who have built in a lot of capacities for various plastic raw materials, I am sure we can do wonders in the export arena.

Friends, we are lucky to have the presence of Mr Jagdish Tytler amidst us today who is in charge of Ministry for Overseas Indians Affairs. This is a very important Ministry when it comes to exports since there is a major role that our overseas Indians, more popularly known to us as the NRIs, can play in our exports. In almost all forums, China is always quoted as a great success in exports. Various reasons for their success are mentioned ranging from economies of scales of production, high subsidies and many more. During my various export promotion tours, I have observed that one of the major factors for their export success is also the immense patriotism that expatriate Chinese exhibit by promoting Chinese products in the countries of their residence. I would like to take this opportunity in requesting the Honourable Minister to create a forum whereby the exporting community and the NRIs could interact with the prime objective of promoting Indian exports. This could be in terms of identifying resourceful Indian personnel specializing in each product group to enhance the market share in target countries. Such a strategy is all the more important for sectors like the plastics sector where we really do not enjoy any comparative advantages and are almost at par with our competing nations majority of whom are from amongst the Asian Tigers.

Twenty five years ago, we celebrated our Silver Jubilee and that was the time when I just got involved with the Council by participating in its various export promotion programmes. Right from this time, I myself have been witness to the dynamically changing economic scenario. The post liberalization period of a lot of Appendices dealing with Cash Assistance and REP licenses. In fact, so much were the complexities of these policies and procedures that one had to either maintain a separate full-fledged department for such purposes or depend on a Consultant who specialized in such subjects. However, today we are free of most of such hassles and have a lot of time to devote to subjects that deserve more priority in exports like aggressive marketing, quality control and bettering the productivity. I feel that these are the three key areas that we should concentrate on for the future and see how the Council's platform can be used for this purpose.

In fact, the needs of the exporting community will constantly change as we move into the future and all of us in the Council are committed to redefine our role in such an environment. I must complement the Department of Commerce in this matter for having come out with schemes like the Market Access Initiative which essentially takes care of facilitating export promotion strategies in the current scenario. The days of looking out for bulk importers in overseas countries is slowly fading out since bulk imports are fast being replaced with foreign buyers demanding ex-stock deliveries. The concept of brand popularity and direct marketing is fast gaining a foothold. Market Access Initiative or MAI as is popularly known provides assistance in resorting to such modern export strategies.

Most of you must already be aware that the Department of Commerce has already approved a project for the Council under this well-conceived initiative for tapping the over five billion US Dollar market for plastic consumer goods. We are in the implementation stage of this project and I take this opportunity to appeal to all members involved in manufacture and exports of plastic consumer items to make the most out of this initiative. You suggest other projects and improving the present one are most welcome at any time.

With the emergence of the WTO, new threats like the anti-dumping and anti subsidy issues are also on the increase. The plastic sector itself has been a victim of such proceedings in sectors like PET Resin and film, woven sacks and ropes. This is another area where the Council and its members have to gear up and also plan preventive measures for the future.

I must, on this occasion, compliment each and every personality who has contributed to the growth of exports from the Indian plastic industry and the growth of this premier export promotion body. I must compliment the Government of India and all the Founder Members of Plexconcil who conceived this body with objectives that exhibited an excellent vision to carry the Indian plastic industry on the path of export growth and progress. The Government of India officials who have been associated with us have always been a source of inspiration lending their unstinted support in fulfilling our objectives.

All the Chairmen of the Council deserve special compliments for shouldering their responsibilities and passing their legacy to their successors through the able support of all members, members of the Committee of Administration, other office bearers and the Council's Secretariat. I take this opportunity to pay my tributes to all those Past Chairmen of the Council who are not living today to witness this great occasion.

I also consider it my proud privilege to have enjoyed the able support of all members of my Committee of Administration who have inspired me into organizing these celebrations. These celebrations will be followed by regional celebrations at our regional centres in Chennai, Kolkata and New Delhi so that our friends from other regions who were not able to make it today will get a chance to celebrate this Golden Jubilee Year.

I would also like to place on record and acknowledge the excellent efforts of the Sub-Committee constituted for the Golden Jubilee Celebrations who, besides me, comprised of my Vice Chairman Mr R C Loha, Past Chairmen Mr Bhikubhai Chitalla, Mr Bhogibhai Gandhi, Mr Suresh Gandhi and Mr Vamanbhai Parekh, Past Executive Director Mr Dion Fernandes and the present Executive Director Mr Kalyanpur. I would also like to acknowledge the efforts of all members of the Council's Secretariat who have toiled to organize this grand function.

I welcome you all once again to these celebrations and look forward to the Gold turning to Diamond and eventually to Platinum.

Thank you.

The last decade on the Silver-Gold path....

The last decade has seen a lot of changes in the field of exports and export promotion especially after the ball on the liberalization path has been set fast set rolling from 1992.

The export promotion activities themselves are on the increase. With just about two export promotion activities in 1995-96, which included participation in two trade fairs, we have moved into double digits in the years to come. The table below indicates the number of activities that have taken place.

	1995-1996	1996-1997	1997-1998	1998-1999	1999-2000	2000-2001	2001-2002	2002-2003	2003-2004	2004-2005
Trade Fairs	2	6	2	5	8	7	7	13	15	12
Delegations/ BSMs	0	1	3	1	1	1	1	6	5	4
TOTAL	2	7	5	6	9	8	8	19	20	16

During the initial period of the decade, participation in trade fairs generally included plastic fairs and it was discovered that such fairs are mainly technology fairs where plastic raw materials and plastic machinery (which are not under the purview of the Council) derive benefits and other value-added items really do not find a proper place. The strategy was completely changed over the years to identify and participate in more product-specific fairs. Subsequent fair participation included Houseware Shows, School & Office Supplies, General Consumer Fairs, Packaging Fairs, medical fairs (for medical disposables) and many more. This change in strategy was beneficial to the industry and the Council is always welcoming suggestions from its membership to identify such events. One of the latest was also in the composites sector at the JEC Show in Paris this year where the Council and its concerned members staged an excellent show.

While organizing the delegations and BSMs overseas, besides taking assistance from our missions abroad, the Council started putting in its own efforts to develop a database through various sources and identify prospective buyers. In fact, the Council also procures data in this regard wherever available and also puts in its own efforts through its team of officers (many of whom have had hands on experience in export marketing) to contact such targeted buyers/customers and fix up appointments. Specialised product delegations have been successfully organised to many countries. One delegation worth mentioning is a delegation to USA for exploring OE (Original Equipment) in March 2004 to the USA (primarily Michigan, Ohio & Connecticut areas). It was indeed a memorable delegation with meetings lined up with organizations like General Motors, GE, Ametek Prestolite and many more with our own efforts.

Another two such memorable events have been a delegation comprising primarily of woollen sack manufacturers to Iraq in 1998 at a time when this country was slapped with sanctions. The efforts of our Embassy at that time are commendable and resulted in this delegation reaping benefits of regular orders for a few years under the United Nations Oil-for-FOOD programme. The other one was a delegation to Argentina, Chile, Peru & COCUS-LAC programme. A land that was Commerce launched its FOCUS programme. A land that was highly unfamiliar to the exporting community revealed a lot of opportunities and facts about the land which Indian exporters rarely frequented.

The FOCUS programmes themselves, an innovation of the Ministry of Commerce, encouraged the Cs like ours to organize group activities that are so very useful in such countries. In fact, the setting up of our New Delhi office somewhere in 1996-97 facilitated a greater interaction with the Government in fostering a better understanding of their initiatives for export promotion.

The advent of the electronic age and the internet made lives much simpler especially in terms of timely and effective dissemination of information. At a few key clicks on the computer, information is transmitted to all members in a matter of minutes and access to documents is provided through our website. The council is a voracious user of the relevant tools in the electronic age for export promotion.

Another innovative initiative of the Government, the Market Access Initiative or MAI led the Council to explore the over 5-billion US Dollar potential for plastic consumer goods in the USA. A project under this initiative was approved by the Department of Commerce under which the export strategies to directly market the plastic consumer ware in USA will be facilitated through buyers to demand ex-stock material in fact, with the tendencies of fast in changing strategies to service our clients more effectively.

The Council will gear up the future by adding more and more innovations to the export promotion activities with active support from the Government and its members on the path of conversion of Gold to Diamond and subsequently to Platinum.
